MEDICAL RECOMMENDATIONS

Respect of these “10 Golden Rules” is essential to enjoy a good sporting life.

1. Training: prepare yourself several months before the competition and practice long distance outings on hilly terrain. Warm up before any exercise. Stretch before, during and after exercising.
2. Hydration: drink plenty (before, during and after training) without waiting to feel thirsty (drink every 15' up to 1 liter per hour).
3. Food: always carry some food with you. Eat regularly, even without feeling hungry.
4. Injuries: do not start the race if you have any physical weakness (muscle, bone, ligament...)
Things will only get worse as km go by!
5. Infection: no hard training in case of fever. Rest for a week after flue (there is a risk of heart attack or muscular problems).
6. Medicines: During the race the intake of some medicine can produce side effects such as muscular or kidney problems. Check with your GP.
7. Anti doping policy : taking any doping substance is forbidden and liable to prosecution. The complete list of forbidden drugs is available on www.afld.fr. If, in the case of prolonged medical treatment one must use a forbidden product, one must get the authorization from the “Medecin referent”.
8. Tobacco: Smoking damages one's health. It is particularly dangerous to smoke 1 hour before exercising and less than 2 hours afterwards.
9. Symptoms to check during the race : See a doctor if you experience pain in the chest, irregular heartbeat, unusual panting and a feeling of sickness during or after the race.
10. Symptoms after the race: see a doctor in case of dark urines (or no urine), blood in the feces, oedema after air travel...

Do not hesitate to consult a physiotherapist, a chiroprapist, a nutritionist before the race. Get yourself familiar with training programs and physical and mental preparations. These are no small details when preparing such a trail.

MEDICAL ADVICE

Regarding the no contraindication visit, it is advisable to get done a resting ECG and a test of effort.
